Option 1

Take the tube or the train to London Bridge

To walk from London Bridge, exit the complex at the level of the underground station. Leave the underground through the exit marked for the railway station, and turn right. If coming from the overground rail, descend the escalators and turn left opposite the tube entrance.

Although still in the station complex, you are on Joiner Street. Walk past The Vaults (market area on your left) and continue until you are outside.

You will be able to see three key landmarks: The overhead footbridge that leads to Guy's Hospital (above you), the large sign that spans the road towards the hospital, and the Macdonalds restaurant (both across the road). Turn left, you are now on St. Thomas Street.

Turn first right, onto Weston Street (look for the two red phone boxes). Walking down Weston Street, after about 100 metres you will come to The Rose public house.

Continue past this, and past the two parks, the first of which is on your right, with the second on your left. From here, you can see The Leathermarket, which is the large old yellow brick building straight ahead.

Enter The Leathermarket through the archway which is to the left of the red post box, and come up the steps into the cafe and reception area.

Option 2

Take the tube to Borough

To walk from Borough tube station, walk down Long Lane and take the fifth left onto Weston St. The Leathermarket is on your right.

Parking – available in the NCP car park on Snowfields. However, we do not recommend driving in, as there are no guaranteed spaces!
